SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

These device-specific guidance documents provide performance criteria for premarket notification (510(k)) submissions to support the optional Safety and Performance Based Pathway, as described in the guidance entitled "Safety and Performance Based Pathway."¹ As described in that guidance, substantial equivalence is rooted in comparisons between new devices and predicate devices. However, the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act does not preclude FDA from using performance criteria to facilitate this comparison. If a legally marketed device performs at certain levels relevant to its safety and effectiveness, and a new device meets those levels of performance for the same characteristics, FDA could find the new device as safe and effective as the legally marketed device. Instead of reviewing data from direct comparison testing between the two devices, FDA could support a finding of substantial equivalence with data demonstrating the new device meets the level of performance of an appropriate predicate device(s). Under this optional Safety and Performance Based Pathway, a submitter could satisfy the requirement to compare its device with a legally marketed device by, among other things, independently demonstrating that the device's performance meets performance criteria as established in the above-listed guidances, rather than using direct predicate comparison testing for some of the performance characteristics.

A notice of availability of the draft guidances appeared in the Federal Register of September 20, 2019 (84 FR 49528). FDA did not receive comments on the "Cutaneous Electrode for Recording Purposes" guidance; FDA considered comments received on the "Conventional Foley Catheters" guidance and revised the guidance as appropriate, including by clarifying, in the discussion of Biocompatibility Evaluation, when material mediated pyrogenicity testing is recommended.

These guidances are being issued consistent with FDA's good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The guidances represent the current thinking of FDA on performance criteria for the "Cutaneous Electrode for Recording Purposes" and "Conventional Foley Catheters." They do not establish any rights for any person and are not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.

II. Electronic Access

Persons interested in obtaining a copy of the guidances may do so by downloading an electronic copy from the internet.
